

【解答】

- (1) I wonder what made him decide to marry her.
- (2) A credit card has enabled us to enjoy conveniences we could not otherwise afford.
- (3) So intimate is the relation between a language and the people who speak it, that the two can scarcely be thought of apart.
- (4) Schools in Japan seem institutions not so much of learning as of social engineering — constantly reminding students that they are members of a larger community.
- (5) The teachers were astonished at the speed with which she learned to speak French.
- (6) The question of what it is like to be Japanese is a complicated one.
- (7) For thousands of years salt has been used to help preserve food from perishing.
- (8) More and more young Japanese people are heading abroad to find opportunities unavailable home.