

次の(a)～(n)の英文の中で、文法・語法の点で誤りがないものを全て選び出し、記号で答えなさい。

- (a) Although the weather was extremely cold yesterday, Tom insisted in going for a walk without wearing a jacket. As a result, he caught a bad cold and had to stay in bed for several days.
- (b) The company has decided to expand its operations overseas, believing that its investment will result in greater profitability in the long run. They have already started looking for business partners in several Asian countries.
- (c) It was difficult to make a decision because both options had their advantages and disadvantages. After much consideration, she chose the one what seemed most beneficial for her career.
- (d) Many experts agree that climate change is becoming a more serious issue than before. However, some people still doubt whether human activities are responsible to global warming despite scientific evidence.
- (e) Despite his lack of experience, Daniel managed to complete the project successfully because he was determined to learn new skills and improving his knowledge.
- (f) The scientist, who has spent years researching this phenomenon, believes that the recent discovery will provide new insights into how animals adapt to extreme environments.
- (g) Although Susan was tired, she continued working on the report, knowing that meeting the deadline was more important as taking a break.
- (h) The manager instructed his employees to submit their reports before the meeting, explaining that failure to do so would have resulted in a delay in decision-making.
- (i) If I have enough time this weekend, I plan to visit my grandparents and help them with some household chores.
- (j) Although the lecture was fascinating, I had a hard time concentrating because the speaker spoke too fastly for me to follow his explanations.

- (k) The committee decided to postpone the event as the venue was unavailable. They are planning to hold the conference in two weeks later instead.
- (l) Lisa was so excited about her trip to Italy that she couldn't stop talking about it. She had never been to Europe so far and was looking forward to experiencing new cultures.
- (m) If the train would arrive on time, we could reach the meeting without any problems. Unfortunately, delays are quite frequent on this line.
- (n) The new policy is designed to encourage employees to take breaks during work hours, which can lead to increased productivity and lower stress levels.